THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN records action by the General Officers, the Board of Trustees, the Executive and other National Committees, lists of members deceased and of new members, and important doings of State Societies. Secretaries of State Societies and of Local Chapters are requested to communicate to the Secretary General written or printed accounts of all meetings or celebrations, and to promptly forward copies of all notices, circulars, and other printed matter issued by them, and to notify him at once of dates of death of members.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.—As announced in the last two issues of the OFFICIAL BULLETIN, photogravure copies of Trumbull's painting of the "Signing of the Declaration of Independence," and facsimiles of the text of the Declaration have been made by a well-known engraver of Boston and are for sale to State Societies or members for presentation, in the name of the Society, to public schools and colleges throughout the country. The size of the photogravure itself is 18 by 27 inches. The text of the Declaration is 18 by 22 inches, printed on a sheet 22 by 28 inches. Framed copies of each were exhibited at the Boston Congress.

The cost of single copies of the photogravure, unframed, is $5.00, and the facsimile of the Declaration is 35 cents, which includes expressage to any part of the United States. Single copies of the photogravure, framed in 3-inch quartered oak and boxed ready for shipment, cost $10.75, and the facsimile, framed in 2½-inch quartered oak, packed for shipment, is $4.15.

It is believed that the display of such historic documents and pictures in schools and colleges is one of the best ways to inspire a patriot spirit in the youth of our land.

Orders may be placed direct with the engravers, A. W. Elson & Co., 146 Oliver St., Boston, Mass., stating the purpose for which they are desired.

EDUCATION OF ALIENS.

The Committee on Information for Aliens is at present distributing large numbers of leaflets for use in the night schools throughout the country, which are largely attended by adult aliens. State Societies and members of the Sons of the American Revolution are requested to notify the Chairman of the Committee, Commander John H. Moore, U. S. N., The Wyoming, Washington, D. C., of night schools, large employers of aliens, or other places where the leaflets for aliens may be used to advantage. The National Society Leaflets Nos. 1, 2 and 3 will be sent in any quantity desired to any address free of charge. No. 1 Leaflet, "Information for Immigrants Concerning the United States: Its Opportunities, Government, and Institutions," is printed in English, Italian, Yiddish, Polish, Magyar, Slovinian, Slovak, Croatian, Swedish, Greek, Bohemian, German, Norwegian, Danish, and Lithuanian. No. 2 Leaflet on "Naturalization of Aliens in the United States: How to become citizens; what is required; rights and duties," and No. 3 Leaflet, "The Constitution of the United States of America," are printed only in English.

REVOLUTIONARY NAVAL RECORDS.

The Committee on Naval Records is actively promoting the preservation of the records of the Navy in the War of the Revolution. In a paper on "A Naval Affair," read before the District of Columbia Society, December 20, 1911, Rear Adm. Colby Mitchell Chester, U. S. N., said: "On the authority of Edgar L. Maclay, the Naval Historian, it may be stated that the combined Naval forces of the American Colonies during the Revolutionary War, consisted of a force of over 40,000 men, a number nearly threefold that of the Army at any time, and, together with 792 vessels, carrying more than thirteen thousand guns and swivels. This force captured or destroyed about 800 British vessels, and took more prisoners than all our Armies put together, if we except those capitulating at Yorktown where the Army and Navy acted in combination."

✓ COMMITTEE ON PREVENTION OF THE DESECRATION OF THE FLAG.

To the list of members of the Committee, as published in the June BULLETIN and the National Year Book, the President General has added Compatriot Henry W. Samson, of Washington, D. C., who has been actively interested in this work since its inception.

On June 6, 1912, Mr. Cox, of Ohio, introduced a bill in the House of Representatives (H. R. 25614) to prevent the desecration of the flag of the United States of America. Objections having been made to certain features of the above bill a new bill (H. R. 26167) was introduced by Mr. Cox on August 7, reading as follows:

62D CONGRESS, 2D SESSION. H. R. 26167.

In the House of Representatives, August 7, 1912.

Mr. Cox, of Ohio, introduced the following bill, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary and ordered to be printed.

✓ DOINGS OF STATE SOCIETIES.

THE CALIFORNIA SOCIETY, on June 27, held a celebration (slightly deferred) of the Battle of Bunker Hill. About 65 members and guests listened to patriotic addresses.

A joint reception of the "Sons" and "Daughters" of the American Revolution was held at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, on July 4, in honor of the day and of the biennial convention of women's clubs.

The following resolution was adopted at a meeting of the Board of Managers of the California Society on July 1, 1912:

Whereas, the Sons of the American Revolution is a society composed of descendants of revolutionary patriots who believe this system of government to be the best ever devised for free and intelligent men, and that the Constitution of the United States was framed by rare wisdom, foresight, and patriotism, and is the most liberal, humane, and broad-minded political document ever drawn; therefore

Resolved, That we deplore and resent all aspersions and criticisms of the Constitution and Government of these United States, especially when emanating from alien sources.

The One Hundred and Twenty-ninth Anniversary of the Treaty of Paris, whereby the United Colonies were acknowledged, September 3, 1783, to be free, sovereign, and independent States, was commemorated by the California Society on Wednesday, September 4, at 6:30 p. m., at the Bellevue Hotel, San Francisco. An informal dinner was served and Hon. Beverly L. Hodghead, former Mayor of Berkeley, addressed the Society on "The Present Status of Reform of Criminal Procedure."

✓ THE COLORADO SOCIETY.—The Denver Chapters of the "Sons" and "Daughters" of the American Revolution held their annual picnic at Happy Hollow Ranch, June 15, 1912, the home of Adjutant-General John Chase, former President of the Colorado Society.

✓ THE CONNECTICUT SOCIETY Board of Managers and members of the Col. Jeremiah Wadsworth Branch, about 250 in all, met at the home of Dr. George C. F. Williams, President of the Society, on June 28, 1912, to dedicate a sun dial presented to him by his compatriots. The principal discussion of the board was on the offering of medals of the Society in the towns of the State for essays by pupils of the public and high schools on Revolutionary subjects. It was voted to have a committee of five appointed by the President to carry the matter out.

An invitation was received from the New Haven Branch, asking the State Society to hold its next annual meeting in that city. The invitation was accepted and the annual meeting will be held there February 22, 1913.

An invitation was also accepted to hold the annual field day in Waterbury in the autumn.

✓ THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA SOCIETY, through the generosity of its Past President, Col. Wm. B. Thompson, has issued a pamphlet of 108 pages, containing presidential addresses of Admiral Baird and Colonel Thompson, and papers read before the Society at monthly meetings between February 22, 1911, and February 22, 1912, including "Home-making through Conservation," by F. H. Newell, Director of the U. S. Reclamation Service; "The Island of Guam," by William C. Safford (late Lieut., U. S. N.); "Lafayette and the French Participation in the War of the American Revolution," by William A. De Caindry; "A Naval Affair of the Revolutionary War," by Rear-Adm. Colby M. Chester; "Some Underlying Causes of the American Revolution," by Selden M. Ely; "George Rogers Clark," by Col. Gilbert C. Kniffin.

✓ THE EMPIRE STATE SOCIETY held a meeting at the Onondaga Hotel, Syracuse, on June 18, about 200 members and guests being present. At the regular meeting on October 15, in the Myrtle Room, Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, arrangements have been made to present a series of moving pictures of Revolutionary events. The annual banquet will be held Monday evening, November 25, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The Newburgh Chapter, jointly with the "Daughters" and other patriotic Societies, celebrated the Fourth of July at the historic "Washington Headquarters," when Francis X. Carmody, of New York, delivered an address on "The Declaration of Independence and What it Meant."

The Newtown-Battle Chapter had charge of the Fourth of July celebration at Elmira. The Chapter took a prominent part in the dedication ceremonies of the Newtown-Battle Monument, on August 29. Wm. H. Lovell, President of the Chapter, was Chairman of the Commission. Addresses were delivered by Hon. Cornelius A. Pugsley and President Louis Annin Ames, of the State Society.

The Huntington Chapter gave a banquet on June 8. The Chapter has presented prize medals to scholars of the Huntington High Schools.

The Rochester Chapter is planning active patriotic work. On the evening of July 2 the officers and managers of the Chapter held a meeting and appointed a committee to consult with the proper authorities with a view of obtaining proper markers for the graves of the soldiers of the Revolution who are buried in the cemeteries in Rochester and Monroe County.

A committee was appointed to prepare a program of what the Chapter would do during the year, the aim being to promote patriotic feeling among the citizens of Rochester. The neighborhood celebrations of the Fourth of July were given approval by vote.

It was voted to raise the money necessary to purchase the Eddy Revolutionary War relics and place them in the D. A. R. Chapter house. The collection includes between 150 and 200 objects, together with a mass of manuscripts of historic interest dating back to 1736.

✓ THE HAWAIIAN SOCIETY held its annual meeting at Honolulu on June 17, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Robert J. Pratt; Vice-President, Perley L. Horne; Registrar, Howard C. Mohr; Treasurer, Charles H. Dickey; Secretary, Ira D. P. Canfield; Directors, Clarence H. Cooke, John W. Jones, Frank C. Atherton.

✓ THE ILLINOIS SOCIETY has shown considerable activity during the summer season. On May 31, at the quarterly meeting, reports were given of the Boston Congress, and Congressman Martin B. Madden gave an interesting address on the Panama Canal. The Society participated in a meeting of different patriotic organizations at the Chicago Historical Society on June 15, when a very valuable historical address upon the work of Geo. Rogers Clark was delivered. Again, on August 15, the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Fort Dearborn massacre in Chicago, the Society participated in a joint celebration of the event. The Board of Managers spent an entire evening in July in laying the preliminary plans for the National Congress in Chicago, May, 1913. Committees have been appointed, hotel headquarters secured, and all plans are being thoroughly laid. At a board meeting in September satisfactory progress was reported by every committee. New members are being received right along.

On June 7 a complimentary luncheon was given in honor of Col. A. S. Hubbard, Founder of the California Society.

The Society will hold its usual Yorktown Day Banquet on October 19 at the Congress Hotel, Chicago, with the following program: Music by the Oak Park Ladies Trio; Invocation by Dr. John Timothy Stone, Chaplain of the Society; Address, "Being Up to Date," by Rev. Dr. Wm. T. McElveen, Pastor of First Congregational Church, Evanston, Ill.; Address, "Modern Educational Problems," by President John S. Nollen, Lake Forest University, Lake Forest, Ill.; Address, "The United States and Foreign Relations," by President Harry Pratt Judson, the University of Chicago. It is expected that Baron de Saint Laurent, Consul in Chicago of the Republic of France, will be a guest on this occasion.

✓ THE IOWA SOCIETY has awarded during the past five years (1908-1912) 128 bronze medals to students in colleges and high schools in that State who, by their efforts, have achieved the highest standing in the study of the history of the United States.

✓ THE KENTUCKY SOCIETY celebrated Flag Day, June 14, by presenting to the city of Louisville a silk flag, which was unfurled at Central Park at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of the Park Commissioners, members of the Society, and the public. Mr. John Hundley, First Vice-President of the Kentucky Society, made the presentation address, describing the history of the flag from the time of the first discontent in the colonies until the adoption of the stars and stripes by Congress 135 years ago. Dr. W. B. Gossett, of the Park Board, accepted the flag on behalf of the Commissioners.

On June 24 the Society dedicated a drinking fountain located on the south side of Rowan Street, a short distance east of Twelfth Street, intended to show to all who pass where stood the first building in the city of Louisville. The following inscription appears on a bronze tablet at the base of the fountain:

Erected 1912 by the Kentucky Society, Sons of the American Revolution, within the limits of the "Fort-on-Shore," built 1778-1779, by Richard Chenoweth, in compliance with instructions from Gen. George Rogers Clark, and occupied by troops of the American Revolution for the next four years.

For the dedication the President of the Society, R. C. Ballard Thruston, extended an invitation to the Colonial Dames, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and other patriotic organizations. His speech of presentation was followed by an address by Gen. Basil W. Duke, Historian of the Society, giving an account of the journeys of the first white men who visited this part of the country. President Thruston explained the purpose of the gathering and the general work of the Society in marking, wherever it is possible to do so, such spots in Kentucky as are identified with the colonial and pioneer history of the State, and more especially such as are associated with memories of the Revolution.

General Duke traced the first exploration of the Ohio country by the English Colonel Wood, Capt. Thomas Batt, the French La Salle, and down through the recorded exploits of Finley, Moon, Richard Taylor, and Daniel Boone to the surveys of Thomas Bullitt. He told of Clark's Kaskaskia expedition and the leaving of a force of men on Corn Island to guard supplies, and the settlers who had accompanied the forces and had raised a crop of corn on the island, and then of the orders coming from Clark at Vincennes for the removal to the mainland, and the building of the stockade afterward known as "Fort-on-Shore."

The hardships and privations and perils of the pioneers in extracting a living from the wilderness and defending themselves against the wild beasts and more savage Indians, incited by "Hair-buyer Hamilton," as the British Commandant at Detroit was dubbed by Clark, were detailed by General Duke, who drew from their hardihood and perseverance the lesson of gratitude for the service and sacrifice and of reverence for their memories. The acceptance of the fountain by the city was acknowledged by Judge Clements on behalf of Mayor W. O. Head, who was absent from the city.

Judge Clements recalled the debt of the United States to Louis XVI of France, and expressed the rejoicing that should be in the hearts of all Louisville citizens that the naming of their home should have been the first acknowledgement of the kind in the country. He said that it is singularly appropriate that the spot of the first settlement should be so marked and likened it to the Lupercal of ancient Rome, declaring that the city accepts it as such and will forever revere and guard it.

A letter written by John Todd, Jr., from Harrodstown, to a friend in Virginia just after Clark's departure for Kaskaskia was read by Judge James S. Pirtle, which not only confirms the site, but established the fact that Clark left thirty men on Corn Island as a guard instead of the ten or twelve which has long been supposed, and tends to the establishment of the belief that Todd assisted Clark in gathering troops for his movement against the Northwest, and that it was understood between them and Gov. Patrick Henry, of Virginia, that if the expedition was successful, Todd was to become the first Governor of the new territory, which afterward came to pass.

The fountain is a heavy bronze basin three feet in length by two feet in width, standing on a pedestal and base, that brings the surface of the water about thirty inches above the level of the sidewalk. At each end are approved sanitary drinking fountains for humans, and the base has a channel which permits drinking by dogs and smaller animals.

✓ THE MARYLAND SOCIETY is greatly interested in the erection of a monument to Francis Scott Key and to the defenders of Fort McHenry at the time of the British attack on that fortification. The following Bill was introduced in the U. S. House of Representatives by Mr. J. Chas. Linthicum, of Maryland, on July 23:

62D CONGRESS, 2D SESSION. H. R. 25912.

In the House of Representatives, July 23, 1912.

Mr. Linthicum introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on the Library and ordered to be printed.

A BILL providing for the erection of a monument to Francis Scott Key and to the defenders of Fort McHenry at the time of the British attack on that fortification.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That there shall be erected at Fort McHenry, under the direction of the Secretary of War, a suitable monument in honor of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner," and to those men who repelled the attack of the British fleet on that fort.

SEC. 2. That for the purpose of erection of said monument the sum of fifty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary therefor, is hereby appropriated, from any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended by direction of the Secretary of War, or such officer as he shall designate: Provided, That the money hereby appropriated shall be drawn from time to time as may be required in the progress of the work and upon requisition of the Secretary of War.

✓ THE MASSACHUSETTS SOCIETY is arranging to set aside a certain percentage of its gross receipts as a fund to be used in the publication of Massachusetts Revolutionary Military data.

The Treasurer, in his twentieth annual report, shows the receipts for the last Society year to have been $3,785.70, and the general expenditures, $3,012.96. The assets on April 15, 1912, were $8,428.80, including $6,991 in permanent fund and $1,239.72 in reserve fund.

On Saturday afternoon, September 14, the Society dedicated with appropriate ceremonies, at Danvers, a tablet commemorating the Quebec Expedition of 1775. After prayer by the Chaplain of the Society, Rev. L. W. Hicks, President Edwin S. Crandon spoke of the purposes of the Society, and addresses were delivered by Hon. Alden P. White, Dr. Frank A. Gardner, and Judge George B. Sears.

The history of Benedict Arnold's expedition to Canada was told in detail by Mr. White, and Mr. Gardner gave an account of its personnel. After the capture of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, Congress conceived the idea of seizing the crown possessions in Canada. Benedict Arnold impressed General Washington with the force of this plan, and September 13, 1775, the first battalion, under Colonel Arnold, left Cambridge and camped that night in Lynn. The next day they proceeded to Danvers, stopping in the general vicinity marked by the boulder at Danvers. The battalion then went on to Rowley, Newburyport, and thence up the Kennebec and through the forests to Canada.

The inscription on the tablet tells in brief the story as follows:

"In Commemoration of
Arnold's Expedition to Quebec,
One of the most strategic and daring exploits
Of the patriot cause during the Revolution.
Part of the troops encamped at the
TOWN OF DANVERS
On the night of
September 14, 1775
On their way to Newburyport
Where they embarked for the Kennebec
And their famous march
Through the pathless wilds of Maine
Successfully accomplished in spite of Formidable obstacles and excessive privations.

This memorial placed by the Massachusetts Society Sons of the American Revolution."

About 1,100 men started on the expedition, including 400 from Massachusetts, 250 from Rhode Island, 100 from Connecticut, 100 from New Hampshire, and 300 mountaineers and frontiersmen from Pennsylvania and Virginia.

In his address Mr. White said:

In a little less than two months the expedition, what was left of it, emerged from the wilderness. Their battle with nature had been back-breaking and heart-breaking. It had chilled and starved and exhausted. It had conquered brave men by sickness; it had driven weak men to desertion. Of the nearly 1,100 men who marched so merrily by this spot, only 500 well enough to be considered fit for service, ragged, barefooted, haggard, and half-frozen, at last reached Point Levis and helped beyond the barrier of the river the goal of their hardships.

It is almost impossible to conceive of the indomitable courage with which this little remnant of a little army crossed the river, climbed the heights, and established itself before the city, in vain attempt to accomplish a forlorn hope. More terrible than the sally of the defending garrison was the dreadful cold of Canadian winter. More fatal than bullets were the inroads of dread and loathsome disease.

The gates of Quebec did not open to welcome them. There, before the walls, their dwindling numbers clung and waited for Montgomery to come from Montreal to their aid. Montgomery came, with some stores, some clothing, some guns, some ammunition. Day after day, as the bitter cold became more bitter, Montgomery and Arnold waited for a stormy night on which to surprise the city by assault. Desperate to rashness seems the plan as we look back upon it. No braver men than these two ever led brave men in desperate fight against hopeless odds.

On the last night of the year in a swirling storm, they played their game and lost. Montgomery, sensitive, refined, and true, type of Wolf and Montcalm, laid down his life as they had done. Arnold, honoring to the full all that confidence which Washington had placed in his conduct and courage, was brought off from the midst of frightful carnage with a shattered leg.

Then, notwithstanding this crowning disaster of repulse; notwithstanding the loss of the dead, prisoners, and wounded, the remnant of these heroic patriots maintained an ineffectual siege of Quebec for four months longer. Finally, about the first of May, baffled by the arrival of ships from England with new forces, they retreated. Somehow, some time, some of the brave array which went out so gaily along this road crept back to their homes. Of the hundred or so of those trained back-woodsmen who followed Morgan from the Virginia mountains, it is said that less than a quarter ever returned.

Heroism is not determined by victory. It is measured by endeavor, by devotion, by sacrifice. With ever so little study of this expedition to Canada, one better understands the familiar tradition of a conference between its leader and an American patriot in London, after the close of the Revolution:

"What would you have done with me if you had captured me?"

"We would have cut off the leg which you shattered at Quebec and would have buried it with the honors of war. We would have hanged the rest of you."

In well-deserved tribute to the men who here passed by, this memorial is reverently dedicated.

Dr. Gardner gave the roster of the provisional regiment, made up of two battalions, with Col. Benedict Arnold in command; Lieut.-Col. Christopher Greene, of Warwick, R. I.; Lieut.-Col. Roger Enos, of Windsor, Conn.; Maj. Return Jonathan Meigs, of Middletown, Conn.; Maj. Timothy Bigelow, of Worcester. He followed with the list of staff and line officers, among them, of local interest, being Capt. Samuel McCobb, of Georgetown. Two volunteers who held no commissions, later attained distinction and rank—Lieut.-Col. Aaron Burr and Eleazer Oswald. Of the participants in the expedition three later became major generals, two brigadier generals, ten commanded regiments, three became lieutenant-colonels, four became majors, and fourteen captains. While the expedition failed in the capture of Quebec, it proved to be a valuable school, from which there graduated into the patriot army a bright array of brave, gallant men, who did much to assist in establishing this great nation.

THE MISSOURI SOCIETY, at a meeting on June 11, appointed a membership committee of thirteen to carry out plans that have been made for an increase in the membership. Later, on the same evening, a reception was held in honor of the President, Amedee Cole.

Independence Day was celebrated on Sunday, June 30, when the Rev. Dr. S. J. Niccolls, former President of the Society, preached a sermon on the "Higher Conservation" to the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution. In the course of his sermon he said:

But there is a conservation of our national resources, accumulated from the past, of vastly greater importance than the resources of nature. It has reference to our liberties, our institutions, and the convictions and principles that have made us great and strong as a nation. A nation's greatness does not consist in its material heritage, but in the spirit that inspires and controls it. It is to be measured by its sense of justice and right and the regard that men have for each other as men. A nation's soul, the vital power that shapes and develops it, is nothing more than the sum total of its moral and political convictions and beliefs. As they are, so must it fare for good or ill. To lose them or exchange them for new ones is to arrest or change the course of its growth. Here comes in the claims of the higher conservation. We have, as a nation, grown from weakness into marvelous power and greatness. We have "eaten and are full." Are we now in danger of forgetting what has made us great? Are there tendencies among us which indicate that we are forgetting the principles that actuated the men who founded the republic, and thus endangering the heritage which we have received from them? Assuredly, the history of nations that did "forget" and ceased to walk in the ways of their fathers, and so compassed their own overthrow, furnishes us a solemn admonition on this point.

It was to arrest such tendencies and keep alive the faith of our fathers that various patriotic societies, notably among them the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution here represented today, were organized. Some have been disposed to look upon these organizations as designed to gratify ancestral pride, or establish in a republic where all claim equality, a kind of aristocracy based on lineage, or at best to gratify a pleasing patriotic sentiment by marking the graves of Revolutionary soldiers and placing memorial tablets in historic localities. Perhaps some who belong to them have no higher conception of their object. But their avowed and underlying purpose, one that abundantly justifies their existence, is something deeper and higher. It is, in brief, through awakened memories of the past, to set before the present generation the heroic and self-sacrificing deeds of our ancestors in their devotion to their country, and to remind them of the principles upon which the republic is founded, and that through adherence to them, it has become a blessing to mankind. That there is need of this is obvious. Vast multitudes have come to our shores from other countries, who are not only ignorant of our past, but who, through their previous training and lineage, are not in intelligent sympathy with the ideas and aims of the fathers of the republic.

✓ THE NEW JERSEY SOCIETY, through its committee on monuments and memorials, is about to place a large block of Barre granite at the Stoney Brook Cemetery, Princeton, in memory of Richard Stockton, Signer, who is buried there.

Dr. George H. Richards was, on September 17, elected Registrar of the Society to fill the unexpired term of John Jackson Hubbell, who died August 21. Mr. Hubbell had served as Registrar for a long period. He was one of the organizers of the National Society, April 30, 1889.

Pamphlets for the use of immigrants arriving in this country, giving a description of the United States, have been published by the New Jersey Society in the Italian and Yiddish languages.

The Elizabethtown Chapter held its quarterly meeting on September 16 at the home of Judge Edward S. Atwater, President of the New Jersey Society.

A proposition was discussed for the Chapter to attempt the collection and compilation of the events in the history of Elizabeth, with a view to having them edited and published in reading form for the public schools, so that the school children, and through them, the people in the city would get a more intimate knowledge of the historic deeds, famous places, and notable men connected with the city, and in so doing, to stir up a greater local and civic pride.

The Chapter voted to continue the prizes as given last year to the high school students for excellence in essay work on some Revolutionary topic, and this matter was put in the hands of a special committee. Two questions for subjects were suggested by the members present. One was "Alexander Hamilton and his relation to Elizabeth"; another, "The character of the Hessian, as evidenced by his conduct in New Jersey."

Mr. John B. Wight, President of the Montclair Chapter, spoke concerning the educational work done by that Chapter among the aliens in Montclair.

The Orange Chapter has been active in observing events of national interest. On June 14 the anniversary of Flag Day was remembered by a banquet given at the City Club, East Orange, in the evening. Howard Marshall, President, acted as toastmaster, and there were several addresses.

On July 4, the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, the Chapter took part in the safe and sane celebration. The members acted as escort to a parade of about 3,500 school children in Orange in the morning, after which exercises were held.

The Chapter also took part in the exercises incident to the dedication of a liberty pole and flag raising at the Park Avenue M. E. Church, East Orange, on Sunday, June 30.

On October 7 the Chapter celebrated the anniversary of the battle of Saratoga and the battle of King's Mountain by a meeting and banquet at the English Banquet Hall, East Orange. Howard Marshall, President of the Chapter, officiated as toastmaster.

The significance of the day, said Mr. Marshall, was not alone in the remembrance of Saratoga and King's Mountain, but also in the anniversary of the anti-stamp act convention of 1765, the delegates having assembled on that day 147 years ago. It was the first time that the anniversary had been remembered, and it was well that it was so, because the great principle fought for, that of individual rights, had there its beginning for the people of the United States.

Judge Edward S. Atwater alluded to the strong spirit which permeated the Constitution convention, and of the high-class men that attended it. He quoted liberally from one of Dr. Henry Van Dyke's latest books, wherein some of the sterling traits that count for good citizenship were given a fine setting, a spirit of self-reliance, fair play, and will power. It was a question today of whether these principles should maintain in the country, or are we to depart from their soundness.

About 250 men, women, and children attended the exercises at the Old Burying Ground, Orange, on October 7, when a handsome new flag, presented by Thomas W. Williams, of East Orange, was thrown to the breeze. Invitations had been issued to the schools in the vicinity, and large numbers of pupils were in attendance. Frederick G. Handel, teacher of music in the Orange Schools, led in singing patriotic numbers.

Historian General Pierson has made addresses along patriotic lines, partly in the interests of the Society, at various schools in the city of Orange, including an address at the Memorial Day exercises of Uzal Dodd Post, No. 12, on May 30; at the Dispatch Rider statute in the Old Burying Ground, Orange, on Flag Day, June 14; at the meeting of Orange Chapter in the evening of that day; at the Hawthorne Avenue Baptist Church, East Orange, on Sunday, June 16; to raise the colors to the top of the Liberty pole at the Park Avenue M. E. Church, East Orange, on June 30, when special services were held. He was the marshal of the Independence Day parade in Orange, and lowered the colors in the evening from the Liberty pole at Watsessing Park, East Orange, in the presence of several thousand persons, and later read the Declaration of Independence. He also addressed several hundred Italian-Americans on the principles of the Constitution of the United States at South Beach, Staten Island, N. Y., on Thursday, August 8.

The Montclair Chapter observed September 17, Constitution Day, by holding an evening meeting at the residence of Albert French, with an attendance of about 150 representative men of Montclair. The exercises were opened with the kindling of a great camp-fire, which burned during the evening. The grounds were filled with lights and about the house Chinese and Japanese lanterns were hung in groups and singly, while great American flags were stretched on the sloping lawn, about the tennis court and the house.

John B. Wight, President of the Chapter, officiated as master of ceremonies. Music was furnished by the Lotus Glee Club, of New York, and several soloists.

Starr J. Murphy delivered an address on the Constitution, giving a brief history of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution.

Judge Edward S. Atwater, of Elizabeth, President of the New Jersey Society, brought greetings from the entire State membership, and David L. Pierson, Historian General, of East Orange, spoke for the National Society.

✓ THE WESTERN RESERVE SOCIETY (of the Ohio Society), held a meeting of its Board of Management at Cleveland, on August 1, when President General James M. Richardson read a copy of the bill before Congress providing for the preservation of the American flag from indignities. A resolution indorsing the bill was adopted by the Board, and Dr. Harris G. Sherman, President of the Society, requested members to exert their influence with members of Congress to obtain its passage. (See Bill H. R. 26167 on previous page of present BULLETIN.)

PROTECT THE FLAG.

Members of the Sons of the American Revolution are urging upon Congress the enactment of a bill, recently introduced by Representative Cox, of Ohio, making it a misdemeanor to insult the Stars and Stripes or to put the flag to unworthy uses. In this they should have the support of all patriotic citizens.

The subject has not lacked attention. Some may think it has had more than its importance warrants. But it cannot be considered as settled satisfactorily so long as the United States statute books ignore it and the nation must depend, as in Ohio, upon State legislation for the proper protection of the national standard.

The Cox bill embodies provisions considered necessary and found practicable in State practice. It seeks to protect the flag and coat of arms of the United States from indignity by imposing a penalty consisting of a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment for not more than one year. This is to be imposed upon those who tear down, trample upon, treat with indignity, wantonly destroy, utilize for advertising purposes, attach unauthorized devices to or use or imitate the flag or coat of arms as an advertisement, trade mark or label.

Seemingly the only possible objection to the measure could come from manufacturers or others who are not above utilizing the flag in their efforts to conjure trade and profit. If any such are still found, their protests may well be disregarded, except as proof that the law is needed. Presumably the measure's greatest danger lies in the fact that House and Senate are busy with important matters and may end their sessions without considering one that has already been neglected too long.

The bill should be promptly reported by the judiciary committee and enacted without a dissenting vote. Congress should be unwilling to leave the nation in the position of relying on the various States to do what it can do more appropriately and more effectively itself, what its own self-respect demands. The Federal laws that protect every castiron mail box from defacement should afford equal protection to the American flag.

✓ THE PHILIPPINE SOCIETY has elected as Registrar-Treasurer H. Lawrence Noble, P. O. Box 940, Manila. Eight new members have recently been accepted by the Society.

✓ THE RHODE ISLAND SOCIETY has published a neat memorial pamphlet containing biographies and portraits of seven members deceased during the last society year.

✓ THE WASHINGTON SOCIETY reports that the Washington school of Tacoma is preparing a more than usually interesting program for the celebration of Washington's Birthday on February 22 next. There will be appropriate music and addresses intended to revive the principles of the Revolutionary period and other features, one of which will be the planting on the school grounds of a tree from Mount Vernon, the home of General Washington. This tree will be presented to the school by the Alexander Hamilton Chapter of the Washington State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, of Tacoma.

✓ THE WYOMING SOCIETY has elected officers as follows, all residents of Cheyenne:

President, Leander Corning Hills; Vice-President, Frank Lincoln Moore; Secretary, Frederic Burton Sheldon; Treasurer, William Edwards Chaplin; Registrar, James Hazard Walton; Historian, William Levi Whipple.
